Pacific Southwest Regional Fugitive Task Force

The Pacific Southwest Regional Fugitive Task Force (PSWRFTF) had been actively assisting the Los Angeles Police Department, North Hollywood Division, Homicide Unit with the investigation into the shooting death of a 15-year-old male victim. The victim had come to the aid of a mentally handicapped male who was being assaulted by a group of “North Hollywood Boyz” gang members. The victim attempted to stop the gang members from beating the handicapped man, when the gang shot and killed him. ### Capital Area Regional Fugitive Task Force

On October 6, 2005, at 5:45 a.m., members of the Metropolitan Police Department (MPD) Seventh Police District responded to 22nd Street S.E. Washington, D.C. for a report of a shooting. Upon arrival, officers found a female victim lying on the ground, unconscious, suffering from gunshot wounds. The victim was transported to the Washington Hospital Center where she was treated, but succumbed to her injuries, and was pronounced dead. The cause of death was ruled a homicide by way of three gunshots, including a fatal bullet which perforated the lung and heart. After intensive interviewing by MPD officers, information was developed that earlier that night, the victim had been at local nightclub in Southeast, Washington D.C. and was involved in an altercation with Jasmine Sheree Joyner. Joyner, who had been “waiving a pistol around and declaring she was going to 22nd street” where the decedent resided, was later identified as the shooter in the homicide. On the afternoon of October 6, 2005, MPD detectives secured a warrant out of D.C. Superior Court, charging Joyner with 2nd degree murder. On that same date, the case was turned over to the Capital Area Regional Fugitive Task Force (CARFTF) for apprehension. CARFTF investigators developed information that Joyner had fled to Raleigh, North Carolina. CARFTF investigators relayed the information to the U.S. Marshals North Carolina Violent Fugitive Task Force who were able to apprehend Joyner in Raleigh without incident on October 8, 2005.

Southeast Regional Fugitive Task Force

On the night of October 17, 2005, members of the Southeast Regional Task Force (SERFTF) and the Pickens County, Georgia Sheriff's Office arrested America's Most Wanted fugitive David Kiermaier. Kiermaier was convicted in 1993 of sexual battery on a 5-year-old girl and sentenced to 20 years. When he was paroled from the Washington Correctional Institute in Angie, Louisiana after serving ten years, Kiermaier moved to nearby Bogalusa and began working as a day laborer. On May 29, 2004, a year and a day after being paroled, Bogalusa detectives say Kiermaier lured a female friend to his apartment and raped her. The 43-year-old woman is mentally impaired and police say Kiermaier threatened to hurt her if she went to the authorities. The victim confided in a friend, who then alerted the police department. Investigators say that Kiermaier had already fled the area. Several days later, on June 3, 2005, a warrant was issued for Kiermaier's arrest. That same day, a witness reported seeing Kiermaier hitchhiking outside a motel in Picayune, Mississippi. On June 27, 2004, detectives received a tip putting Kiermaier at a house in Cumming, Georgia. Cumming police officers checked the residence and learned that they'd just missed catching him. It was the last confirmed sighting of the fugitive.

On October 11, 2005, Kiermaier was profiled on the America's Most Wanted website, AMW.COM. Kiermaier called a friend who he'd met on the internet and confided in her about the news. The woman called the AMW hotline and provided details on where Kiermaier was living. While SERFTF investigators put together a plan to catch Kiermaier, the tipster remained in contact with him, never letting on that she was helping the police. According to the tipster, Kiermaier was getting worried that the police might soon find him. He changed his cell phone number and told her that he was planning to leave the area on October 18th. SERFTF investigators staked out a trailer that Kiermaier was renting and after spotting him coming home from work, the team surrounded the trailer. After knocking on the door and announcing their presence they received no response. Upon hearing movement inside the residence, the door was breached. A search of the trailer revealed the subject hiding in a cubby hole behind a hot water heater. Kiermaier was taken to the Pickens County Jail and is awaiting extradition back to Louisiana.
